Biography

David Tsai acts exclusively for employers in the area of labour relations and employment law. His practice spans unionized and non-unionized workplaces for both federally and provincially regulated employers.

David advises clients on a wide range of labour relations and employment-related matters, including discipline and discharge, employment standards, occupational health and safety, workplace safety and insurance, collective bargaining, human rights, and wrongful dismissal. He helps his clients to interpret federal and provincial legislation and assists them with the development of strategic workplace policies and procedures. David also has experience advising clients on the labour relations and employment issues arising from corporate reorganizations and mergers and acquisitions.

David has represented clients before a variety of courts and tribunals including boards of arbitration, the Ontario Labour Relations Board, the Canada Industrial Relations Board, the Human Rights Tribunal of Ontario, employment standards referees, and the Ontario Superior Court of Justice.

Prior to joining Miller Thomson, David summered, articulated and practised labour relations and employment law in the Toronto office of a global law firm. David also has experience working on the management teams of two major law firms, specializing in the recruitment, performance management and career development of summer law students, articling students and associates.

Professional achievements & leadership

- Honours Standing for Third Year, University of Toronto, 2008

Notable matters

- Dahoui v. Ivanhoe Cambridge Inc., 2017 HRTO 641 (successfully argued for the dismissal of a human rights application on the basis that the applicant had not been discriminated against because of race or any other of the enumerated grounds in the Human Rights Code)
- Di Muccio v. Newmarket (Town), 2016 HRTO 406 (successfully represented the respondent Town in a human rights application that was dismissed by the Human Rights Tribunal of Ontario on the basis that the applicant was not in an employment or contractual relationship with the Town)
- Jennifer Ford v. Anne Anderson and the University of St. Michael's College, 2015 CanLII 27353 (ON LRB) (represented the University of St. Michael's College in a successful motion where the Ontario Labour Relations Board dismissed several issues raised by the individual in an application alleging reprisal under the Occupational Health and Safety Act)
- Universal Workers Union (L.I.U.N.A., Local 183) v. PNR Railworks Inc., 2011 CanLII 78742 (ON LRB) and 2012 CanLII 17170 (ON LRB) (represented PNR Railworks in a grievance dismissed by the Ontario Labour Relations Board as a result of the union's failure to follow the parties' agreed-upon protocol for the referral of grievances to arbitration; the union subsequently sought to refer a second grievance that remedied this procedural defect but which was otherwise identical to the first grievance; the Ontario Labour Relations Board agreed with PNR Railworks' submissions that the second grievance referral not be accepted in the interests of sound labour relations policy requiring sophisticated entities to ensure public resources were not wasted by a union's failure to comply with previously agreed-upon protocols)

- Universal Workers Union (L.I.U.N.A., Local 183) v. Teston Pipelines Limited, 2011 CanLII 78812 (ON LRB) (successfully represented Teston Pipelines in a referral of a grievance to arbitration where the Ontario Labour Relations Board held that the disciplinary action imposed on a worker for making death threats against his foreman was appropriate)
