Biography

Stéphanie Pépin is a tax lawyer. In her practice, she advises individuals and corporations regarding dispute resolution with the tax authorities in Canada and represents clients before the courts with respect to tax litigation. She has also developed expertise in the area of voluntary disclosures.

Furthermore, Stéphanie counsels her clients in various tax matters, including corporate reorganization, the buying and selling of businesses, and estate planning.

Stéphanie studied law at Université de Montréal. She has also obtained a Master's degree in Tax Law at HEC Montréal in 2015.

Before joining Miller Thomson, Stéphanie practised as a lawyer in the tax team of a large law firm and in the tax department of an international accounting firm.
