Biography

Matthew practices commercial litigation, and looks to advance his clients' interests in a wide range of legal matters. He is committed to delivering excellent service in order to achieve his clients' objectives.

Community involvement

Matthew recently volunteered at Downtown Legal Services ("DLS"), the College-Montrose Children's Place, and with the University of Toronto's Faculty of Law Student Law Society ("SLS"). At DLS, Matthew helped screen and direct potential clients towards the help that they needed. At the College Montrose Children's Place, he supported young children in the Toronto community by aiding in the development of their motor and linguistic skills. Finally, as a student representative in SLS, he represented student interests and helped oversee funding for law school events and student organizations at the law school.
