Biographie

(Disponible en anglais seulement)

Lauren Parrish has a broad practice focusing on litigation for private and public health industry clients before Ontario's courts and administrative tribunals. She specializes in medical malpractice, professional negligence, professional disciplinary matters, and regulatory issues. Lauren has a strong knowledge of the unique legal issues facing the health industry and is focused on providing practical, risk-managed solutions and strategies for her clients.

Lauren is actively engaged with pro bono and volunteer work, particularly in the areas of mental health and disability. She has worked as a volunteer with Reach Canada, an organization that provides lawyer referral services to clients with a disability. She sits as a member of the Research Ethics Board for the Centre for Addiction and Mental Health. She is a recipient of the Osgoode Certificate in Mental Health Law.

Lauren joined Miller Thomson as a summer student in 2013. She was called to the Ontario Bar in 2015 after completing her articles with the firm.
