Curious and detail-oriented, Johanna Barrière puts her passion for environmental and urban planning law to work for her clients. Her extensive training and research conducted on corporate social responsibility and the carbon market serve as the foundation for the effective and strategic support she provides to clients facing complex issues.

Johanna practised law at a boutique firm specialized environmental compliance and risk management, where she assisted organizations in implementing environmental regulations. Now an associate in the Montréal office, she offers her clients precise and personalized legal advice, formulated with a keen eye for detail, intellectual curiosity, and top-notch communication skills.

Committed to environmental causes, Johanna collaborates actively with her peers and participates in industry initiatives for the benefit of her clients, contributing to advancing the law and responsible practices.
